It is well chronicled in history that Abraham Lincoln was born into a poor family in a one bedroom log cabin and would later become the 16th president of the United States. What is not as well chronicled are the decisive key moments and experiences that would develop him into the man that would lead a nation through a brutal civil war and end the oppression of slavery in our country.

While it is easy reverse the accomplishments of such a great man, one must understand that he did not simply arrive at birth locked and loaded ready to take on the world. Like all great leaders, Abraham experienced and walked through circumstances in his life that were decisive in the molding of his character and beliefs. From this, the man that we celebrate and remember was made and his vision and calling realized.

In his new book “The Calling Journey” Tony Stoltzfus reveals a universal timeline that maps key stages in the development of leaders. Much like Abraham Lincoln, many if not all leaders go through stages in life were God is preparing them outside of their calling. Using biblical examples such as the lives of Joseph and David as well as leaders like William Wilberforce, Tony reveals how comparing your own story to such leaders and their Calling Journey can offer amazing insight into yours. Using tools honed from over a decade of coaching, readers are shown how to map out their own Calling Journey through four developmental stages and three transitional “valleys”.

- Natural Promotion
- The Valley of Dependence
- The Preparation Stage
- The Valley of Wholeness
- The Releasing Stage
- The Valley of Identity
- The Fulfillment Stage

From this, the reader will learn to see areas in their lives that while bringing frustration, also is being used by God to develop and define their call. The many stories of leaders who have gone before you and the traps, lies, fears and temptations as well as what they did with them will help you discover and realize that God is truly next to you. He is truly making your circumstances work together for your good.
